

Building the Next Generation of Educators

Strengthening educators to be effective on Day 1

NIET works with more than 100 educator preparation providers to prepare the next generation of great teachers and school leaders. By strengthening the connection between K-12 and educator preparation, our partnerships prepare aspiring teachers and aspiring leaders. We work closely with every educator involved in the system, from training faculty and coaching site coordinators to developing resources for aspiring teachers and designing programs for aspiring leaders. The EE PASS portal provides educator preparation programs with resources and data management tools that support their work. Graduates report that they feel ready, and districts often find that educators who are prepared by NIET partner programs are more equipped to meet their expectations.

“Partnering with NIET has helped create a stronger transition from teacher preparation for success as a first-year teacher. The result is more confident and capable educators who are ready to make an impact from day one.”

— Dr. Danielle Williams, Associate Professor and GramPREP Director, Grambling State University, Louisiana

How We Prepare Educators Before Entering the Classroom

Using 25 years of experience, NIET works alongside educator preparation leaders to provide aspiring teachers and leaders the tools for success:

- NIET Aspiring Teacher Rubric and Principal Standards Rubric
- Grow-your-own programs
- Faculty training and support
- Residency and induction models

"Our partnership with NIET strengthens how we prepare new teachers to use high-quality instructional materials and support all students to access grade-level learning. NIET's training and support has made a real difference in our ability to work together to prepare aspiring teachers to be effective and positioned to grow their skills over time."

— Dr. Debbie Dailey, College of Education Dean and Professor, University of Central Arkansas, Arkansas

Gateways to Great Instruction

When educator preparation programs embed High-Quality Instructional Materials (HQIM) into teacher training, aspiring teachers enter classrooms confident and prepared to use effective curricula. NIET's work with preparation programs showcases that hands-on training increases educators' confidence and ability to implement HQIM, improving instructional quality and student learning.

New Teachers Are Better Prepared

of educator preparation program faculty report that the NIET's aspiring teacher evaluation process has provided aspiring teachers with specific, timely feedback of educator preparation program faculty report satisfaction with the NIET Aspiring Teacher Rubric for developing effective teaching

Source: NIET Department of Research and Evaluation, 2024

For more information, contact us:

800-575-NIET | info@niet.org